World Class Sires Dominate Ready To Run

Progeny by world champion producing sires Galileo and Street Cry presented an unusual opportunity for South Africans at the Ready To Run sale last Sunday, writes KAREL MIEDEMA.

Not surprisingly the smart money was there. In spades.

Mike de Kock, Andre MacDonald and Charles Laird spent a combined R4 million for the three top lots at the sale. Their expenditure represented more than 15% of the total take at the auction. De Kock and MacDonald battled it out for the top priced lot, a filly from a black type Australian family. MacDonald cried enough at R2 million, as the champion trainer went one more to secure the youngster for R2.1.

MacDonald got his reward a little later, when bidding a million for another filly, this one from the Aga Khan female line of Champion filly Zarkava. Charles Laird got the third highest priced lot, a Street Cry filly, for R900k. Mike de Kock and Charles Laird were the major buyers at the sale, with Cape trainer Joey Ramsden hot on their heels. Next year's Ready to Run Cup will show who was the smartest of them all.

The sale averaged R190k for 143 lots sold, up from last year's R172k for 146 sold. Split by sex, the fillies did much better than last year, for which the three top lots must take credit. The weaker sex averaged R183k vs. R159 last year, the colts went up to R198k from R814k last year.

When priced are ranked in order and the median (mid-price) is studied, the picture changes dramatically. The mean for the males was R160k for 66 sold, the fillies were way below that, with R90k for 77 sold. The overall mean was R120k.

Compare this to last year's means: colts 120k (81 sold), fillies 100k (65 sold), and overall 100k as well. In other words, the colt's median increased by 30%, and fillies were down 10%, and overall there was no change. Quite remarkable, and quite contrary to patterns found in sales earlier this year. Buyers could well be of the opinion that colts have a better chance of winning next year's Ready To Run Cup, even though the sexes ran 1-2 this year in the R1.5 million race.
